Definitions

License Account Login is a mandatory login for a License Account. This login manages user security and access rights, new user acceptance, and user payments. This Login does not have client data entry permissions.

License Account is the license code (space) that users belong to as part of their licensed use of DiscoverQuick (community). The License Account contains user details, use details and payment rates for the Account.

User Login is a login to access the content and data associated with the License Account. All users must agree to the terms and conditions of use.

Adding new client is the registration of a new client within the User Login's location (location refers to the organisation/department/specified label of the User's workplace). A User may have more than 1 Location.

Client management is the User Login access to a specified client's management page in DiscoverQuick. At this page a User Login can view the client's history, add a new event, enter client form data, and modify client's personal data.

Client Login is the client's personalised login to his/her management page. This Login is generated by the User Login. The Client Login access policy and permissions are determined by the License Administrator Login. The default access for a Client Login is limited to data entry only.

Improving Me is users' access to their own management page in DiscoverQuick. At this page users can view their history, add a new event, and enter form data.

ISP data transfer refers to the Internet Service Provider charges for data transfer. Excess charges may be charged.
